London, June 8.—Sergeant Michael O'Leary, who won the Victoria cross by killing eight men and capturing two trenches, a machine gun and two prisoners all alone, has written to his parents, after reading obituary notices proclaiming him the bravest man in the British army. His letter says:

"I see in today's papers that I have been killed in action. No; I am still on the firing line, doing my bit for king and country. I trust God is not going to call me soon, or until I have done a bit more for my country.

"I came out of the last battle with only a few scratches, thank God."

O'Leary's death was reported in London last Friday. It brought from the press more glowing praise than has followed the loss of any other subordinate British officer since the war began.

London, June 10.—The correspondent of the Times writes from Petrograd that the Russians lost one auxiliary ship.

It is surmised, the correspondent says, that a majority of the German ships hitherto concentrated at Kiel came out into the Baltic, but the battle squadron apparently was not engaged. It is believed in Petrograd that the Germans will repeat their attempt to land troops on the Russian coast.
